BELLE GLADE, FL.

Plane found, upside down

BELLE GLADE--Sheriff's deputies found an abandoned upside down single engine Cessna 210 aircraft Saturday morning, July 20, on the Evergreen Sod property, approximately 3 miles west of US 27, 26 miles south of South Bay.

According to police report, along with the aircraft, deputies found approximately 700 ft. of lights strung along a shell rock road near the aircraft.

The pilot had apparently lost control while attempting to land on the road, crossing the sod field and striking a shallow irrigation ditch.

Arson suspect arrested

BELLE GLADE--Investigation into the Monday, July 8 Chickie Hut arson at the Belle Glade Marina, has been concluded with the arrest of Charles Wilton Herndon, 22, of 940 NE 26th St.

Information was received by investigators which implicated Herndon and during a polygraph examination he confessed that he used a bic lighter to start the

Tropical Storm Bob strikes glancing blow

DRIVING conditions in the Glades area were some of the effects of tropical storm Bob. A falling tree totaled a South Bay Growers truck driven by South Bay resident Joe Miller, 42, and trapped him inside as he was driving north on old SR 27. A joint effort by the Florida Highway Patrol, South Bay Police, Sheriff's Office, and city workers using the 'jaws of life' extricated him one hour later. Miller sustained minor injuries and was transported to Glades General Hospital.

TROPICAL STORM BOB'S wind gusts blew up to 45 m.p.h. Tuesday, playing havoc with Glades' electrical systems and damaging property.

Money for housing

$5 million wanted for the Glades

BY GENE ANTONIO

BELLE GLADE--County Commission Chairman Ken Adams believes he can persuade at least two other commissioners that the Glades needs money desperately for housing.

Last week Commissioner Adams took his argument on the road as he invited his colleagues on a bus tour of the Glades. He hopes they will see the need here and free up $5-million from this year's budget to be given directly to upgrade housing in the Glades.

The commissioner hopes to set up a local committee to spend the money so that "we get the most mileage out of it."

He told a group of local government officials and others gathered Friday at the Glades Office Building that too often when money comes from the federal and state governments and from the "East Coast" it either never materializes or is used unwisely.

He said, "I don't want to decide (how the money is used). The people who live here are in a better position."

Commissioner Adams said a referendum for a $50 to $70-million "beach bond" would not receive his support unless money from the county comes to the Glades.

He commented, "Not everybody benefits equally from the beach bond." He added, "I'll only support it if money comes to the Glades."

Adams noted that with the current work on State Road 80 the Glades could become an important recreation area in the county and bring in revenues.

He said the Glades has the same potential to make money as does the city of Okeechobee.

As part of the recreation picture, each year the county Tourist Development Council spends over $3-million in advertising.

If trailers and campers on the lake are charged a bed tax the lake areas become eligible for a percentage of the advertising money.

Here too the commissioner called for local input.

The commissioner is calling the $5-million for housing "seed money" which he wants to see from the base for other money and at the same time "perpetuate itself" and continue to grow into the future.

Community leaders express needs

BELLE GLADE--Three city leaders spoke up for their communities Friday as County Commissioner asked them what they would like to see done with money in their cities.

Mayor Clarence Anthony of South Bay stressed the needs of the marina and access to the lake. Belle Glade City Manager W.E. "Tom" Strang also stressed money for recreation and focused in on the need for soccer fields. Pahokee Mayor Duncan Padgett wants money for the lakefront.

Mayor Anthony said South Bay has 20 acres of land next to the marina area it would like to turn into an RV park.

He said, "South Bay is in the process of trying to grow. This would bring in jobs and extend and diversify our tax base."

He said that with access to Lake Okeechobee people would be attracted to South Bay and it would act as "a tourist type tool."

The mayor also noted that there is only one small park in the city and the city is lacking in recreational activities.

He said, "In the past South Bay got no county revenue help whatsoever from the general fund."

Belle Glade's Strang stressed money for recreation also.

He said the city's priority is its golf course and noted that the golf course is one of the few in the state which is self-supporting.

He noted that parks for the most part do not bring in revenues whereas the golf course does.

Although the golf course is at the top of the priority list, Strang also is interested in money for the marina and a regional park.

He also sees a need for soccer fields in the area. Calling soccer "a fast-growing sport," the city manager sees a need for land to put the fields into.

He cautioned, however, that many times cities put up parks and then have no money to operate them.

Pahokee Mayor Duncan Padgett would like help with the lakefront and worries that the breakwater is too low to stand a storm in the coming winter.

He blames South Florida Water Management for raising the level of the lake to a point where the breakwater cannot withstand it.

He cited the "thousands of fishermen" who use the breakwater as evidence of the need to maintain it.

Padgett said, "The lakefront is our worst problem." He added, "Unless some money is invested it will wash away."

ARC offers bargains, work experience for clients

BY GENE ANTONIO

BELLE GLADE--A "new venture" has started in the Glades.

The Glades Area Association for Retarded Citizens for the past month has been getting ready to open up shop.

The result is This'n That Thrift Shop which opens its doors Monday at the Two-T Plaza. The store offers shoppers a chance to grab some bargains but does a lot more at the same time.

As ARC Supervisor Sue Lewis explains, the store gives clients of ARC a chance to gain real work experience.

She says the experience they get will provide "reinforcement and a positive self-image."

The idea for the shop took shape about three months ago and things started moving last month.

This is the first venture of this type for the local Association. As Lewis explains, "We're learning as we go along."

One thing the ARC didn't need to worry about was community support. Lewis says, "We got tremendous support from the community."

That support came in the form of donations which fill racks and line shelves of the NW

Avenue L shop.

It also took the form of volunteer work to get the shop ready for business.

The fixtures and cash register were donated by Royal's. A Royal's veteran employee helped in setting up the store.

This'n That offers a wide variety of merchandise at reasonable prices. Shoppers can choose from clothes for men, women and children--everything from back-to-school clothes to several designer's dresses.

The shop also sells toys, kitchen utensils, small appliances, knick knacks, jewelry, books, records and a variety of "odds and ends."

Lewis says the ARC clients will work at the store in a variety of capacities, probably two in the morning hours and two for the afternoon.

They will work in stocking, marking goods and keeping the shelves and racks in order.

This training is designed, in part, to train clients for jobs in the business sector. But even if they don't get jobs, the work experience itself will be beneficial.

The clients, Lewis says, get a chance to meet people in the community. By just having people meet them, she comments, "will improve

Revitalization strategies outlined

BELLE GLADE—"The Glades Revitalization Plan" outlined by the Division of Housing and Community Development, consists of four strategies.

According to HCD Director Allan Schnier, these strategies differ in the degree of flexibility they each possess.

Those plans which call for obtaining the majority of funds from the federal and state governments give less flexibility on the local level.

Each strategy has a proposed budget and estimated time frame. They have various financing techniques.

Schnier, in presenting the strategies, noted that "Any additional source of revenue that can be used to improve the substandard living condition of the Glades area will be of great benefit to the residents of these neighborhoods."

A summary of the four strategies revealed to local city leaders Friday follows:

Strategy A, guided by Community Development Block Grant regulations, is limited in the amount of money it can gain in leveraging power.

The HCD believes through Strategy A, using $2,127,000 in CDBG money, between $500,000 and $750,000 would come under the new category.

The plan has a time frame of 12 to 18 months.

Much like the other three strategies this plan calls for a number of demolitions, rehabilitations and relocations. Also included are code enforcement, new construction, street improvements and land acquisitions. Strategy B uses only federal funds and is also limited by CDBG regulations. Leveraging could be slightly higher than Strategy A and could reach $1-million.

In the case of multi-family rehabilitation an additional 50 percent could be realized in leveraging.

Strategy C has more potential to leverage money because federal regulations do not govern the use of the county's general fund.

Potential leveraging of $1,700,000 could generate an additional $2 to $4-million.

This strategy has the advantage of giving the county the flexibility in maximizing a return on its investment.

Strategy D, although it provides the greatest amount of money, $9,127,100, almost half of it is subject to CDBG regulations.

With the higher amount of money there is more of a leveraging factor—an addition of a possible $5-million for new construction and up to $520,000 for multi-family rehabilitation.

The strategies have time frames of from 12 months up to 50 months.

Strategy A is a CDBG of $2,127,100. Strategy B calls for CDBG of $2,000,000 and $4,127,000 in an unsolicited proposal.

Strategy C is for a CDBG plus $5,000,000 from the general fund for a total of $7,127,100.

Strategy D is for a CDBG plus an unsolicited proposal plus general fund money for a total of $9,127,100.

The only strategy which is final at this time is Strategy A.

2 financing techniques for revitalization

BELLE GLADE—Financing techniques under the Glades Revitalization Plan 1985-86 fall into two categories—new construction and rehabilitation.

Under plans calling for new construction financing could come through rentals or home ownership.

Under the rental plan, through NOAH (a Community Development Corporation legally able to construct new housing in the Glades) there could be various leveraging techniques employed to generate matching loans and cash investments.

Another alternative involves working directly with the developers in an effort to spur housing development in the Glades.

Developers have several financing vehicles at their disposal and could seek financing through the Palm Beach County Housing Finance Authority.

Home ownership is another alternative. Here different strategies for financing are employed.

If a family is not financially strong very few lending institutions will give a first mortgage. Therefore special financing problems must be developed.

One proposal is a relocation program in which occupying owners of dilapidated homes are afforded up to $30,000 to rebuild the home on their lot or elsewhere.

There is also "lotsteading," whereby tenants of substandard units are "conditionally" awarded a single-family lot and a housing assistance payment.

There is also an "interest write-down" program. Interest rates on these loans, through NOAH or a local bank, are based on the borrower's income. It is similar to the Farmers Home Administration's 502 Program.

There is also a possibility of a second mortgage program using the $5-million from the county's general fund. Mortgage could be split between a bank and a low interest second mortgage using the government funds.

Besides new construction, there is rehabilitation of multi-family and single-family housing.

The leveraging of funds for multi-housing rehabilitation can be achieved by a ratio of committed funds to funds sought through the program.

For single-family guidelines would have to be established. The average cost is about $12,000 per house.

Depending on the equity in the home, the owner may qualify for funds from a local bank.

KEN LAMBERT is the owner of Ken's Electric Motors.

New electric motor business opens

BELLE GLADE Ken's Electric Motors opened for business this week at 1233 N.W. Ave. L. across from the Belle Glade Post Office.

The new business is owned and operated by Ken Lambert, a long time professional in the associated with Belle business. Lambert has 32 years experience in the rewinding, and repairing of electric motors, generators, welders, etc.

He and his wife Lois have lived in Belle Glade for 20 years. Lambert was formerly business. Lambert has Glade Electric Motors for 20 years.

"My new facility is totally equipped to give you fast, high-quality, economical service on any controls, welders, pumps, generators, power tools, add-a-phases, and electric motors up to one hundred horsepower.

Complete rewinding or repairing is available any time of the day or night - just call," Lambert said. The business telephone number is 996-3333.

Money Continued from 1

The $5-million for housing is in addition to money from the county for recreation. Here too the commissioner is asking the three local cities to give their suggestions.

The housing money is unique. The money would be the biggest expenditure in the county's budget besides roads.

Adams said, "This is a tough budget year but this is long overdue."

the image of our clients."

Even those clients the public doesn't meet will benefit from the program. "Support workers" at ARC will perform tasks such as cutting out price tickets and other jobs.

With the help of volunteers, ARC clients have this week kept busy moving merchandise into the store.

Lewis comments that the policy today in associations for retarded adults is to make the agencies self-sufficient. Often this is done through workshop environments.

The local ARC has discussed types of work projects it might obtain for its clients, but opportunities in an agricultural, economic environment are few.

Local ARC clients work in a lawn maintenance program and will soon reopen their aluminum recycling business.

But aside from these two ventures, work experience opportunities are few.

The ARC has talked about trying out a clothing repair operation, but for now the thrift shop is the only business planned.

Lewis explains, "We really don't want to get into any kind of repair work at this time."

The shop is a first step in getting vital work experience for many of the less severely retarded clients in the Glades. It also gives the public a chance to meet an often misunderstood segment of the community, Lewis says.

The new store will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturday. The manager is Barbara Treadway.

Donations of usable merchandise are still welcome. Although the store hasn't gotten a phone yet, anyone seeking information can call ARC at 996-5583.

Report of lake's death premature

Back in 1971 a confidential federal survey said overenrichment could kill 700 square-mile Lake Okeechobee within two to 15 years and ruin South Florida's water supply.

The U. S. Geodetic Survey said the lake could "doubtlessly be classed as a eutrophic dying lake."

At the same time, the Flood Control District, precursor of the South Florida Water Management District, issued a contradictory report saying that there was no danger in Lake Okeechobee of massive eutrophication, over-enrichment which causes massive algal growth.

Time has proven the Flood Control District report correct.

Currently, the South Florida Water Management District describes the health of the lake as good. There is no "dead lake" prediction.

Because the lake is shallow, large, and its level fluctuates, the district does closely monitor the condition of the lake.

During fiscal year 1982-1983, the SFWMD approved a five year plan of water quality protection for the "liquid heart of South Florida," Lake Okeechobee.

Since 1976, SFWMD has closely monitored the aging process of Lake Okeechobee and has come up with solutions to the threat posed by nutrients entering the lake in large volumes.

North of the lake, dairymen have been cooperative in relocating facilities, and fencing cows to keep them from bathing in streams. The high level of phosphorus entering the lake had been attributed primarily to cow manure.

South of the lake, our muck soil is rich in nitrogen, which can leach out during rainfall.

This water can be pumped into water conservation areas where rooted aquatic plants more readily absorb the nitrogen than can the lake. It also spreads the nutrients over a much broader area, thus avoiding localized concentration problems.

In times of extremely heavy rains, water will still be pumped into Lake Okeechobee to continue to provide adequate flood protection to agricultural lands.

In contrast to earlier dire predictions for the lake, it is apparent that a new level of maturity has been attained in managing this irreplaceable natural asset.

SFWMD is concentrating these days on implementing solutions and monitoring them, rather than developing new programs. The record, we believe management of the lake is in good hands.

'I've got an idea. Let's have an All-American fund raiser to pay off the national debt.'

BOILER PLATE

Jim Jones

Wish you could have been there

People give me a sympathetic look when I tell them that I have just returned from two weeks military training with the U. S. Army Reserve.

They needn't bother. I tell them it was better than a vacation. Maybe an extended stay at a health spa would be a better analogy.

Let me tell you what I did. First of all, there was a complete break with the civilian world.

There were no newspapers to write stories for or to lay out. There was a whole different cast of characters to work with. There was the challenge of dusting off somewhat rusty skills and honing them to a fine edge once again.

There was two weeks of sleeping out of doors in tents; breathing outdoor air; and doing pushups, situps, and running.

There were no in-between-meal snacks or television.

Classic Coke debuted and I didn't know. Ignorance can be bliss.

In a word, it was the kind of regimen some people pay a lot of money to take part in. And yet here I was being paid by the U. S. government to do something that was good for me.

For personal and patriotic reasons, I have had an affiliation with the U. S. Army for more years than most members of the Class of 1985 have been alive - more than 18.

That would be enough to make me feel old if I didn't feel so good. I'm tempted to say that being in the Army has made me better looking and more intelligent too. You should have seen me before!

Seriously, I like just about everything about the army.

The smells - tent canvas, bacon cooking on the mess hall griddle, boot polish, Brasso.

The sounds - the roar of a deuce-and-a-half diesel struggling up a hill, the cadence of marching soldiers, the truck of small arms fire, barracks laughter, a bugler sounding retreat at sunset.

The sights - men standing in formation on a parade field, spit-shined boots, creased uniforms, a landing craft hitting the beach and men sloshing the last few yards through the surf.

The touch - the sting of CS gas on the skin, the warmth of a cup of hot coffee on a cold day, a fresh uniform and shave after an overnight in the field.

Most of all I like the camaraderie of being with others who come from all walks of life for two weeks a year and one weekend each month for a common goal.

I like being part of something that is absolutely vital to the nation's well being. I believe I have the best of two worlds.

As a civilian I enjoy the exercise of the First Amendment to the Constitution, the Freedom of Speech. Without it, there would be no newspapers, radio stations, or free television in this country. We would have something like Pravda or Tass.

And then for a short time each year, Uncle Sam allows me to wear his uniform and do my part for the country.

It's a great life and a great country. It was great being away and it is great being home again. I wish you could have been there.

TENNESSEE holds up the second big Tournament. This big mouth bass guest fish caught in the Terry Ford weighed over 7 pounds.

86 take part in Trailmaster tourney

BELLE GLADE--Eighty Six boat teams participated in the Terry Trailmaster Tour Tournament held at J-Mark fishcamp Sunday, July 21. The tournament was sponsored by Terry Ford, a West Palm Beach car and truck dealership.

This was the fifth out of a series of six tournaments held at Lake Okeechobee this year. After the sixth tournament a classic tournament is scheduled to determine the 'fisherman of the year'.

Mike Challancin, owner of J-Mark, said two flights of boats were launched in sequence, after a drawing names the night before determining the order of the boats.

"We launched the boats at safe daylight," said Challancin. "The first flight came in at 3 p.m. and the second flight came in 20 minutes later."

As the boats were docking, the team's fish were counted and weighed.

Prizes were given for the total weight of the fish and for the biggest fish.

Taking first prize in the weight category were Darryl Mathis, of Belle Glade and partner John Rawn of Lake Worth. Mathis and Rawn brought in 22 pounds 13 ounces worth of bass for the $1160 first place prize money.

Burt Crowell and Ray Waters of Pompano Beach netted the second place prize of $575. Their catch weighed in at 22 pounds 6 ounces.

Ed Prusinsky caught a whopper of a fish, 9 pounds 9 ounces, which earned him the first place prize money of $602 for the biggest fish.

Carl Harper won second place in the biggest fish category. His bass weighed 7 pounds 5 ounces, netting him $258.

Challancin also says that point scores of all fishermen which participated in the tournaments will be tallied and the 50 fishermen who have the highest point score qualify to fish in the classic tournament free of charge.

FISHERMEN wait in line to hand in fishing tournament held Sunday, July their catches of the day at the 21 at J-Mark fishcamp.

Fishing Lake Okeechobee's waters with pro guide Tennessee

There are times when we fishermen know there's someone 'upstairs' looking out for us.

Last Saturday afternoon the weather was really bad, making the fishermen a little nervous about how 'Mother Nature' would act on Sunday for the Terry Ford Trail Master Tournament.

But, "ole Mother Nature" did smile and 172 fishermen left the dock at J-Mark Fish Camp in high spirits. First place was won by Darryl Mathis and John Rawn with 22 pounds, 13 ounces. Second place went to Bert Crowell and Ray Waters with 22 pounds, six ounces. Third place winners were Jimmy Shelton and Jimmy McMillan with 22 pounds, one ounce.

Fourth place was taken by Kelly

Newberry and Maurice Faircloth with 21 pounds, five ounces. Fifth place went to Terry Garrells and Jim Grimes with 20 pounds, nine ounces. Big fish winners were Ed Prusinski for his nine pound, nine ounce and Carl Harper for his seven and a half pounder.

Bob Davis was the lucky winner of a Yamaha Generator. Mike Surman went home with a Phenix

Rod. Howard Klemen won the Lawrence Depth Finder. And Ernie Rushing won the Medcruy Thruster.

The Terry Ford Tournament Trail has one more tournament, September 15th, before the Classic being held November 17th.

At the September tournament a Yamaha motor will be awarded to the fishermen with the highest points accumulated during the entire tournament.

And the November Classic will see the top 50 fishermen with the highest points compete for the really big prizes.

On behalf of all of the tournament fishermen I'd like to thank J-Mark Fish Camp for the great cookouts they put on the night before each tournament. These hard working people really know how to make all of the fishermen feel welcome to Belle Glade and

J-Mark's. Limits of blue gills are still being caught using crickets while limits of shell crackers are coming in on worms. And, believe it or not, the specks are still being brought in.

I mentioned last week that we were going to have a "Crappiathon" on Lake Okeechobee, sponsored by American Outdoors, Inc.

The plans are going great! This should be one of the biggest events held on our Lake. If you'd like more information about how everyone in our area can help promote this tournament and Belle Glade, contact me at 996-5357.

My guide tip with John Stiech and Geoff Weigand from San Francisco last Thursday produced 100 shell crackers and Friday we brought in nine shell crackers and Friday we brought in nine bass that weighed up to four pounds.

Our afternoon thunder showers are helping the lake some. Just remember that lightning is a serious threat when you're on the lake.

Be safe and seek shelter away from the water if possible. If not, "keep your fingers crossed".

Until next week, safe boating and good luck fishing.

duration and tone muscles three days a week. They work on maximum lifts the other two.

According to their coach, Willie McDonald, many of the boys are going to participate in sports at Glades Central High School in the fall. Some of the participants already have scholarships at Universities and are keeping in shape during the summer.

The workout progresses in 21 stations, moving in a circular pattern. "Each station consists of either calisthenics, a light portion of weights, push ups, jump ropes, leg lifts, sit ups, jumping jacks or climbing the mountain," said McDonald.

He said each station is timed, with 1 1/2 seconds devoted to each station. It takes 45 to 50 minutes to do all the stations.

The program, under the supervision of City Recreational Director Johnny Rutledge, is in its fifth week with only one more week to go.

Some of the participants will be getting ready to go back to college in the fall. Lamar Wright plays football at Miles College in Alabama. Lathen Hightower will be a junior at Florida State University.

Arson suspect charged

"Herndon said he was drunk at the time and that it seemed like the thing to do," said Lt. Louis Lowery, of the Belle Glade Police Department.

Lowery also said apparently Herndon had been thinking about setting fire to the hut for a few weeks.

The value of the Chickee Hut was estimated at approximately $1000.

Bond was set for Herndon at $8000.

CONTROL TECHNIQUES were demonstrated by Sgt. Don Crist of the Belle Glade Police Department to student correctional officers from Glades Correctional Institute. Officer Sergio Longinos helped with the demonstrations, given at the R.V. Turner Training Building.

Inmate charged in shooting

BELLE GLADE—A Belle Glade man, who was in the Palm Beach County jail on assault charges, was arrested Friday in connection with the shooting of Curtis Jeter on the seventh of June, by Detectives Steve Haller and Clarence Backermus of the sheriff's office.

Haller said Samuel L. Billings, 23, Raiderville, was arrested without bond on charges of attempted first degree murder and possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

According to Haller the arrest comes as the culmination of a week long investigation that found he and Backermus going from door to door in Raiderville asking questions.

Said Haller, "After many hours of interviewing people there, we were able to put virtually everybody back on the street that was there that night."

Haller said Jeter, and his companion John Canine, were in that section of Belle Glade for the supposed purpose of purchasing drugs, when Billings allegedly went to the passenger side of the car and demanded their money while brandishing a .22 caliber pistol.

Haller said Jeter, the driver, turned toward the passenger side of the vehicle, and said something to the effect of, "Why me, man?"

At this point, for reasons not clear as yet, to investigators, the gun went off, striking Jeter in the right eye.

Through the intense investigation, many witnesses were located who, either personally knew Billings or picked him out of a photo lineup.

Haller said Billings was currently in jail on aggravated assault charges, stemming from an incident Wednesday night, when he allegedly beat someone with a pipe.

The detective also said Billings was convicted approximately 18 months ago for armed robbery of taxi cab drivers in South Bay.

Haller said the last he had heard, Jeter, 26,

Jennifer Goodson, Robert Archer say wedding vows

BELLE GLADE Jennifer Rosine Goodson, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Goodson of South Bay, became the wife of Robert Gregory Archer, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George Scarborough of Belle Glade, July 12 at 7 p.m.

The double ring ceremony took place at the Belle Glade Church of Christ with Bro. Everette Bean officiating.

Soloist Julie Gummere sang "Wind Beneath My Wings", "Just You and I", and "The Lord's Prayer". She was accompanied by Erin Phillips on the keyboard.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her grandfather. She wore a gown of sheer polyester with embroidered Schiffler lace and seed pearls trimming the bodice.

The full skirt and chapel length train were also trimmed with embroidered Schiffler lace applique with pearls. She carried a cascade of white roses, pink carnations, white carnations, baby's breath and English ivy.

MRS. ROBERT GREGORY ARCHER

Her finger-tip length veil and blusher were edged with polyester chantilly lace. The headpiece was accented with chantilly lace, seed pearls and polyester flowers.

The maid of honor was Doris Acree, who wore a long suede rose gown with a ruffled skirt, which was raised in the back to create a bustle effect. She carried pink carnations.

The bridesmaid was Ana Hernandez and the junior bridesmaid was Tori Kruse. The wore outfits like the maid of honor and carried the same type flowers.

The flowergirl was Judi Rebecca Stambaugh, sister of the bride. She wore a long white dress of sheer polyester and lace with a suede rose ribbon sash at her waist. She carried a white basket with white rose petals. A halo wreath of suede rose polyester flowers adorned her head.

The best man to the groom was Patrick Frong. The groomsmen was Patrick Chancey, cousin of the bride. He also served as an usher with his brother, John David.

Ringbearer was Shawn Michael Stambaugh, brother of the bride. All wore pearl gray tuxedos with rose carnation boutonnieres.

The grandmother of the bride wore a long mauve gown of sheer polyester and taffeta with a scalloped Schiffler lace overbodice. Her corsage was pink carnations.

The grandmother of the groom wore a blue and white gown of sheer flocked dot polyester. She also wore a carnation corsage.

A reception followed the wedding at the First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall. Tables were decorated with fern, lace tablecloths were used over rose liners.

The four-tier wedding cake was decorated by Diane Tillery. Assisting in serving were Betty Kruse, Carol Frong and Fran Dowdy.

Mayte Figueiras was in charge of the bride's book.

Mother of the bride is Inge Stambaugh. Father and mother of the groom are Robert Archer and Betty Johnson, all of Belle Glade.

The bride is a 1984 graduate of Christian Day School and is employed by State Farm Insurance.

The groom is a 1981

graduate of Christian Day School and is employed at W.S.T.U. in Port St. Lucie.

KIMBERLY GRIFFIS WON SECOND PLACE for raising $589 in the Top Ten Salesmanship Awards, which are given to the top 10 girls who raise the most money for the Rainbow Girls Statewide Service Project. This year's project was to build two exercise trails at the Florida State School for the Deaf. The girls raised $27,000. Griffis is the Past Worthy Advisor of Belle Glade Assembly number 1.

Rainbow Girl takes salesmanship award

BELLE GLADE—Kimberly Griffis, Past Worthy Advisor of Belle Glade Assembly Number 1, raised $589 and won a second place salesmanship award in the Rainbows Girls statewide service project, which raised $27,000 to build two exercise trails at the Florida State School for the Deaf and Blind.

Awards were given to the top 10 girls that raised the most money for the project. Griffis received a plaque, a certificate, and a check for $20 at the Grand Assembly.

The Belle Glade Assembly placed sixth in assembly competition.

This year's service project is to completely furnish a room at the Ronald McDonald House. A different service project is chosen by the new Grand Worthy Advisor each year.

Lee Wester chosen Rainbow grand representative

BELLE GLADE—Lee Wester was selected as the Grand Representative to the State of Texas at the 89th annual International Order of Rainbow Grand Assembly held in Tampa.

Lee, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Aspey plans to travel in Texas this summer visiting their assemblies and learning about Rainbow in Texas.

The Glades Day School graduate will be representing all Florida Rainbow Girls on her visit to the Lone Star State.

As a Grand Representative she is required to make a flag of Texas, keep a scrapbook of her activities during the year, and design a costume representing Texas, for next year's Grand Assembly.

Wester served the past year as personal page to the Grand Representative of New Jersey, Lonie Landing.

Man loses life in accident

BELLE GLADE—A 74 year old Belle Glade man died last Thursday, when the pickup truck he was driving ventured to close to a small canal, and fell in.

Florida Highway Patrol reports said, N.J. Barber, 1235 S.W. Ave. E, was driving his 1969 Datsun pickup up on an unnamed road behind Rinkens Construction, when he apparently drove too close to a small canal, and went in.

The vehicle came to rest on its top, pinning the man inside.

The body was recovered by the Belle Glade Fire Department.
